

Sheep Butchering Research

Dissertation to Book Manuscript

Are you interested in participating in a research project about sheep's relationship with Navajo people and Navajo sheep butchering?

Hi! My name is Christine Ami and I am a professor at Diné College. I am conducting research on Navajo Sheep Butchering. I started this research in 2012 as part of my Ph.D. dissertation. Results of this continued project will be included in a book manuscript and assist in the creation of Diné College classes on animal studies from Indigenous and Diné ways of knowing.

Collaborators Needed:

Traditional Knowledge Holders in the Areas of Sheep, Sheep Care, and Sheep Butchering

Former Participants of Research Conducted 2012-2016

Diné Butchers who Work/Have Worked in USDA Slaughter Facilities

Former Butchering Event Coordinators for the Miss Navajo Nation Pageant

If you are interested in this project and wish to participate, please contact me via email (cmami@dinecollege.edu) or call/text (928 349 2995)
